INTRODUCTION

SOUTH DAKOTA EDUCATION PROGRAMS ANNUAL REPORT 2009

Nancy Bohr, RN, MBA, MSN, FRE

The 2009 Annual Report of Nursing Education Programs provides the Board of Nursing with an assessment of each nursing education program's compliance with standards outlined in the South Dakota Nurse Practice Act. The twenty nursing education programs in South Dakota provide data to the Board as required by administrative rules. Data is gathered on each program's enrollment and demographics of nursing students, graduates, curriculum, and faculty within the state.

South Dakota has twenty undergraduate nursing education programs in fourteen schools. The nursing education programs include six generic baccalaureate degree programs, five associate degree programs, and five practical nurse diploma programs. Two programs offer LPN–BSN options and two programs offer RN–BSN degrees. Three programs offer LPN upward mobility leading to an associate degree. The nursing programs offer a combination of full and part time options, with 68.7% offering online access to courses.

Included in the twenty undergraduate nursing education programs are two that were granted interim status approval in 2009 to offer nursing baccalaureate degrees. National American University will be offering a generic Baccalaureate of Science Degree in Nursing, and the University of Sioux Falls will offer an Accelerated Baccalaureate of Science Degree in Nursing with an eight–semester track and RN–BSN options.

South Dakota baccalaureate and associate RN programs received 1,454 student applications for 2009 with 844 (58%) accepted and enrolled. The enrollment percentage remains essentially the same as in 2008. RN applicants who were qualified but denied admission due to lack of space decreased 17.6 compared to 2008 data.

Baccalaureate programs received 665 applications; 90 not accepted; 77 qualified and denied enrollment due to lack of space; 5 dropped pre-census; 39 were accepted but declined enrollment. Final enrollment was 454 (68.3%) of all applications received.

Associate degree programs received 789 applications, with 210 applicants not accepted. Forty-eight students were accepted but declined admission; 129 not admitted due to lack of program space; 12 dropped pre-census, with final enrollment of 390 students, or 49.4% of applicants.

LPN programs received 1,143 applications, a 26% increase over 2008. From those applications, 783 (68.5%) students were not accepted. Total capacity for the LPN programs is 311 students, 8% higher than 2008; 46 accepted applicants declined enrollment and 16 dropped pre-census. LPN applicants (16) qualified but denied admission due to lack of space increased by four students from 2008. Enrollment for 2009 was 282, or 16.5% higher than 2008. Of all applications received, 24.6% were accepted and enrolled in the LPN nursing programs.

*RN upward mobility programs are not included in enrollment capacity data as these students already hold RN licensure.

Females continue to comprise the majority of enrolled students at 1,826 (88.1%) of RN and PN enrollment. Male students enrolled are at 11.9%, a 1% increase from 2008. Males enrolled in RN baccalaureate and associate degree programs increased to almost 13%, a 3% increase from 2008. According to the 2004 National Sample Survey of Registered Nurses, males are 5.8% of RN nursing students; therefore, enrolled males in South Dakota RN nursing programs are 6% above the national average. National figures are not available for males enrolled in LPN programs; less than 1% of students enrolled in South Dakota LPN programs are male.

Ethnicity percentages were similar to those of previous nursing education reports. The majority, or 89.8% of students enrolled in 2009, were Caucasian; 4.4% Native American; African American, Hispanic, and Asian students were each at 1%; with 3% of unknown origin. National averages as found in the 2004 Sample Survey include: Native Americans 0.3%; African Americans 4.2%; Hispanics 1.7%; Asians 3.1%; 7.5% of unknown origin.

The higher than average ratio of Native American students in South Dakota compared to the national sample survey may be due to the fact that there are nine tribal reservations and three tribal colleges in the state.

~ Mount Marty accepts into the nursing major in January
>Some faculty are shared by Lake Area Tech & USD
^Sisseton Wahpeton shares faculty members between the Associate and Practical Degree Programs
* Faculty members from Presentation's Fairmont campus were included in Annual Reports from 2004 through 2008.

Baccalaureate nursing programs reported employing 162 faculty members, a decrease from last year. The highest nursing degree held by the majority of faculty was a master's degree (45.6%) and baccalaureate (35%) degrees in nursing. Doctoral degrees were held by 32 (17.9%) faculty. Two percent of remaining faculty held associate degrees, a less than 1% decrease from 2008.

Associate degree nursing programs reported employing 69 faculty members, with 86.5% employed full–time, an increase of 12.9% from 2008. Part–time faculty was at 16%, a 10.3% decrease from the previous year. Three faculty administrators (7.6%) hold a doctoral degree. Forty–nine (94.2%) hold a masters degree in nursing, while 14 (27%) hold a baccalaureate degree in nursing. Two percent of associate degree faculty hold associate degrees.

LPN programs reported employing 48 faculty members, 29 (60.4%) full–time and 19 (39.5%) part–time; 12 (25%) hold a masters in nursing, 14 (29%) hold a baccalaureate in nursing, while 12 (25%) hold an associate degree in nursing. The number of associated degreed nurses serving as faculty in LPN programs has increased 23% from the previous year. Four faculty members hold a non–nursing masters degree, and one holds a nursing diploma. Faculty with a master's degree has doubled from 2008 for the LPN programs.
